Student Research Opportunities and Fellowships

Gilliam Fellowships for Advanced Study - The Gilliam Fellowships for Advanced Study promote the development of scholars who will assume leadership roles in science, especially among college and university faculties responsible for developing the next generation of scientists. The fellowships are open to PhD students who are: motivated toward careers as academic scientists; from racial, ethnic, and other underrepresented groups in science, including those from disadvantaged backgrounds; and, committed to the advancement of diversity and inclusion in science. Application Due Date: Nominations due in November 2017. Applications due in February 2018. <http://www.hhmi.org/developing-scientists/gilliam-fellowships-advanced-study#Overview>
